The solitude of that unsavory den Manley thought of Legar and his methto bewilder him. He knew that Legar was the unrelenting and eternal enemy of Enoch Golden, just as he had been the enemy of Golden's daughter Mar-

The thought of Margory directed Manley's mind back to the earlier events of that strange day. He recalled his long talk with that quiet-eyed girl in the quiet-toned shadows of the Golden library. It had been the first sonal note had entered. He had enjoyed that talk, for he had felt, as it progressed, that the girl had begun to realize he was her friend, that he want-

But the quietness of the Golden home had proved to be nothing more than a lull which precedes the sudden storm. For, five minutes after he had left the smiling girl, the Golden butler, with terror in his eyes, had come running to him saying there was a stranger in the house, a stranger who had been seen lurking about the halls and had promptly disappeared at the sight of one of the servants. So Manley, forgetting everything else, had promptly joined in the search for that mysterious intruder. And his first thought, after doing so, had been for

Hurrying to the library to make sure of her safety, he had found her seated at her father's desk, quietly talking over the telephone. And there had been little in that scene not suggestive of tranquillity. For blinking placidly down from its perch beside her had acquired parrot, for which Manley himself had small leve. This feeling was tased, not so much on the malevolent air of wisdom surrounding that greenbodied filcher of human phrases, as on the somewhat disturbing trick, taught it by some earlier master, of seeking out gas jets and turning them on the moment it was freed from its chain. Yet as it had stood close beside the

It had not been a pretty fight, that hand-to-hand contest between the slimbodied youth and the scar-faced exploiter of evil, but it had been a desperate one. As Manley, pressing stubbornly on, had struggled to close in on his opponent, Legar had discreetly and nimbly backed away until he found the double house door itself barring his farther retreat. Thereupon he had promptly shattered the plate-glass backing the iron grill work on the hinges, and had actually swung one of these doors open before Manley could gather himself together and spring bodily on his escaping enemy. They had gone down the broad steps together, locked arm in arm, fighting and clawing as ferociously as midnight cats in a tenement court. And Manley, with one hand on Legar's leathery throat, would surely have won, had not a closed car glided up to the curb along which they were writhing and panting and rolling. From that car a yellow-faced Italian known as Scoop had taken a prompt and active part in the encounter. He had withheld finalities, however, until Manley was uppermost. Then, with a quickly drawn "billy" he had blackjacked that youth into utter indifference as to Legar and mysteriously waiting limousine and all the rest of the world.

COMPOUND OF SIMPLE LAXA-TIVE HERBS SAFE FOR BABY AND MOTHER.

Constipation is a condition that affects the old, young and middleaged, and most people at one time or another need help in regulating the action of the bowels. Harsh cathartics and purgatives should not be employed to relieve constipation, as their effect is only temporary while

A remedy that can be used with perfect safety for the tiniest babe and that is equally effective for the strongest constitution is found in the combination of simple laxtive herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in the drug stores everywhere for fifty cents and should be

The highest price ever paid for cattle on the Chicago market in March was $10.05 a hundred pounds, paid there Friday. Scarcity of choice cattle among the farmers was given as the reason for the unusually high price which the steers brought. Buyers predicted that within two months choice cattle will bring $11. Reports from the farming districts throughout the United States indicated that choice cattle were scarce at all markets. This was caused by the recent foot and mouth disease in llinois, Indiana and Iowa. T. W. Jones, of Stanford, had three loads of hogs on the Cincinnati market Monday. Among his purchases for the big shipment were 115 from James W. Allen, of Hustonville, which averaged 150 pounds, and cost him 8 1-2 cents a pound; 110 from J. Harvey Poynter, of the Walnut Flat section, which averaged 110 pounds and cost him 7 1-2 cents. From Eads & Yowell, of the West End, Mr. Jones bought four that averaged 125 pounds, at 8 1-4 cents a

With unerring judgment of value-With a rush that swallowed up a record production in jig time-

The public took more than 50,000 of the $750 Overlands in six months.

In six months we've absorbed all the overhead; absorbed all the development expense; realized on all the experimental cost that is usually spread over a year.

We covered our material requirements at before-the-war prices—saved three and a half million dollars on aluminum and another million on steel.

We have increased our production capacity of 300 cars per day last June to 1000 cars per day.

So again we have broken all records.

Again we have planned and bought material for a bigger production program.

And again we are setting a new and supreme standard of value—

You can now buy the big, roomy, comfortable, thirty-five horsepower Overland for $695.

Here is the value which has clearly dominated the automobile market for the last six months—now made even more clearly dominant.

Here is the car with a performance record never even approached by any car of its size ever built—fifty thousand in every day service.

And though the price is reduced the car is improved.

It has an up-to-the-minute power plant, en bloc type, developing full thirty-five horsepower. It has abundant power and speed and an exceptionally quick get-away.

The value is pre-eminent—unapproached.

We guarantee that the price for this model will never be lower.

But this price reduction is made in the face of a rising material market we cannot guarantee that it will not be higher.
